Rockhurst University's Executive Education: Advanced Leadership Certificate

What is the Open Enrollment Advanced Leadership Certificate (ALC)?

The ALC is a set of courses targeting critical leadership, communication, and management skills to improve and build your firm's leadership capability. The certificate is a 10-credit hour program that is more focused and targeted than a degree program but also more comprehensive and developmental than a training module.

Adapting the Helzberg School's proven business and leadership curriculum, the program delivers a potent learning experience adapted to the time constraints and budgets of busy professionals. The certificate program is made up of 8 courses that capture the critical skills of leading, communicating and managing for results.

The courses in the program include:

- Executive Presence
- Effective Listening
- Conflict Management
- Negotiation
- Networking
- Leading Change
- Financial Management
- Strategic Management

What's the Cost?

The 10-credit certificate costs $9,950. This cost includes all materials required for the courses. Classes meet once a month in Conway 204, which is Rockhurst's Executive MBA classroom. All courses are accredited and can be applied by students towards a Helzberg MBA.

Commit to Your Development in 2025

Who Should Participate in the Open Enrollment ALC?

Experienced & High Potential Managers:

These are people in charge of units. High potential refers to inexperienced managers that the company has identified as having high potential to continue in the role and, perhaps, advance to more senior roles.

Team Leads & Supervisors:

These are people with additional responsibilities for some area or sub-unit but aren't involved in any significant planning. They do tend, however, to have influence on team or individual performance.
